Request

Ananya submitted a formal request for three changes to GreenCart's account:

1. Upgrade from Silver to Gold tier.
2. Change settlement frequency from fortnightly to weekly, effective immediately.
3. Apply Gold-tier commission banding from February 2026.

Her stated reason was cash flow. GreenCart buys perishable stock from farm suppliers on short payment terms and sells on a subscription model. With a fortnightly cycle and a T+2 payout there can be up to sixteen days between delivering goods and receiving funds.

Why This Ticket Is Short

This is a commercial request, not a support issue. Support's role here was to record it accurately, check it against the applicable policy so that the seller received a factual first response rather than an optimistic one, and route it to the decision owner.

I did not attempt to resolve it. Settlement frequency changes are not within Support's authority.

Policy Check Performed

The Seller Onboarding Policy ties settlement frequency to a readiness assessment rather than to tier. I checked GreenCart against each condition.

Condition for weekly settlement	Requirement	GreenCart position on 2026-01-15
Consecutive cycles without dispute	6	4
Automated order and refund reconciliation	Required	Not in place
Verified failover for fulfilment-critical integrations	Required	Configured but never tested
Dispute rate below category threshold	Required	Met comfortably

Two conditions unmet, one partially met. So the request as submitted could not be approved, and I told the seller that on the same day rather than letting her expect a yes.

Response Sent To Seller

I sent a factual holding response on 15 January at 14:20 stating that the request had been received, that settlement frequency is governed by a readiness assessment with four specific conditions, that two of those conditions were not currently met, and that the request had been routed to her account manager for a commercial decision including whether an exception was appropriate.

I deliberately did not editorialise about likelihood. Setting an expectation that Support cannot honour is worse than a neutral response.

Outcome

Business approved a conditional upgrade. The tier change to Gold was granted immediately. The settlement frequency change was tied to validation of the reconciliation milestone, with a INR 3,00,000 security deposit held in the interim.

Full reasoning is in decision record DR-2026-003. The seller accepted the outcome.

Note

Ananya's follow-up comment when the ticket closed was that she had not known weekly settlement had conditions attached at all, and had assumed it was a tier benefit. That is a documentation gap on the seller-facing side rather than a support issue, and I passed it to Business. Tier benefit descriptions in the seller portal list weekly settlement as a Gold feature without noting the readiness conditions.
